

THE UNIVERSITY OF UTAH
COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

---

---

Tenure Track (Assistant/Associate) Professor in American Indian Education.

Utah is home to eight Federally Recognized Tribal Nations and vibrant indigenous communities. The presence of multiple indigenous communities transforms Utah into a dynamic political and cultural hub. Selected candidates will have the opportunity to explore research partnerships with local communities.

The Department of Education, Culture and Society is a diverse, cross-disciplinary group of scholars committed to the study and pursuit of social justice in education using cutting-edge frameworks that address class, race, ethnicity, culture, language, immigration status, gender and sexuality in educational policy and practice. ECS offers Ph.D., M.Ed., M.A., and M.S. program specialties in curriculum theory, English as a second language (ESL), anthropology, sociology, history, and the philosophy of education. The department also offers undergraduate teacher licensure courses related to issues of urban education, multicultural education, and K-12 language education as part of our commitment to develop culturally and linguistic responsive, socially just teachers.

The Department seeks a candidate in American Indian Education who:

- Draws from a range of disciplinary and/or interdisciplinary approaches and
- Can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the University of Utah's academic community.
- Desirable areas of research/teaching interest include: Decolonial theory, Indigenous epistemologies, and Critical culture, curriculum and language studies, qualitative or ethnographic research methods.
- The candidate will be expected to develop or tailor graduate courses to their area of interest.

Review of applications will begin December 15, 2016. Applications received after the review date will be considered if the position has not yet been filled.

Please submit (1) a cover letter, (2) an updated curriculum vitae, (3) a sample of scholarly or creative work, (4) three letters of reference at: <http://www.employment.utah.edu/>. PhD in related field is required by start date.

---

Inquiries regarding the position may be directed to the Faculty Search Committee Co-Chair, Professor Donna Deyhle (donna.deyhle@utah.edu).